רפואה שלמה פעסל בת גאלדא / לזכות חילינו

Hashem derives greater pleasure when people are good to each other than when they are "good" to Him but not to each other.

RABBI YOSEF TELUSHKIN

If it sometimes seems as if Hashem is asking more from us than we are capable of, it only means that He is more aware of our strengths than we are ourselves.

LUBAVITCHER REBBE, REB MENACHEM MENDEL SCHNEERSON (1902-1994)

Even when it comes to holiness and religious devotion, one must always consider how his actions will affect the people around him.

This message was truly epitomized in the latter years of Rav Yisrael Salanter's life when he was too ill to supervise the city's matza baking before Pesach. He sent some of his best students to supervise the entire process. Before they departed for the bakery, they asked their teacher which religious stringencies they needed to be careful about in their task. Rav Yisrael just answered them as follows:

"The woman who cleans the floors in between each baking is a widow; be careful how you speak to her."

RABBI MOSHE KORMORNICK

The story of Pesach teaches us that Hashem has the power to redeem us from any situation, no matter how dire. Trust in His plan and have faith that He will guide us through the difficult times.

RABBI MOSHE FEINSTEIN (1895-1986)

Your search for every morsel of chametz should call your attention to the reality that every drop of your spiritual effort is truly cherished and embraced by Hashem.

REB NOSON OF BRESLOV (1780-1844)
