

Especially at the Workplace

In Sefer Taharas Hakodesh (Maamar Shemiras Einayim 4), the Shomer Emunim writes:

“In particular, one who must often interact with women – e.g., he runs a store into which female customers commonly enter (especially when they’re immodestly dressed) – and he controls himself from gazing, they declare in Heaven, ‘Honor this man!’ The entire Heavenly Court is inspired by how a human being in this world can overcome such a challenge. His overcoming this challenge will always protect him. No creature knows of this merit, only the Creator Himself.”

The Shomer Emunim concludes: “Even you (the one who overcame the challenge) will not know of the greatness you’ve achieved. I am only writing this so that you know what awaits you.”