

While Hearing a Woman Sing

Clarification: As we noted at the beginning of the halachos of reciting devarim sheb 'kedushah in front of uncovered parts of the body, the halachos that we will be stating here are only discussing whether one may recite devarim sheb 'kedushah while hearing a woman sing. We will not be discussing the general prohibition for a man to listen to a woman sing. (There are instances where it may be permitted to hear a woman sing — e.g., a close family member — yet one is still forbidden to say devarim sheb 'kedushah while she is singing.)

23. A woman's singing voice is halachically classified as an ervah. Therefore, a man may not daven, recite Krias Shema, or learn Torah when a woman's singing voice is audible. (Shulchan Aruch OC 75:3)

The Extent of the Prohibition

24. A woman's voice is only an ervah if it is being used in a way that is alluring, as this type of voice can lead to improper thoughts. Singing is one example of this type of voice. If a woman is speaking in a natural way, there is no prohibition to say devarim sheb 'kedushah. (Beis Yosef and Rema 75:2; Mishnah Berurah ad loc.; Beis Shmuel EH 21:4; see Derech Pekudecha 35)
